

Stacey Sketo-Rosener is the Coordinator of Academic Advising in the Division of Undergraduate Education. In this position she works with staff advisers in the colleges and academic departments, central offices (such as Registrar's, Admissions, and Financial Aid), and academic and student support units (such as the Career Center, EOP, and STARS) to coordinate and improve processes related to advising, and to identify and address issues important to undergraduate student progress at UCSC.

She has worked at UCSC for more than 20 years. Her experience includes more than 10 years in adviser and academic preceptor positions at Kresge and Cowell Colleges, as well as work in the Office of Admissions. She has also experienced the university first hand as a student, having completed both a B.A. in Literature and the graduate program in Education at UCSC.
